

Ties

Words and music by Jenica Rayne © 1999

you took me
down to the river
showed me the place
where i fell in
there's no sign here
of an entry
and i'm wondering
where to begin
where we begin

oh, in fairy tales
and make believe
come true
the heart of a child
some folks
believe it too
i'm on a train
with the full moon
in my eyes

watching life follow
these narrow winding
ties that bind us
these ties
that pull us in
these ties
that keep us together
down this rugged path
of narrowness

i remember
when i was a kid
i could laugh
i could sing and
i could dance
i held a freedom
in my soul and
my body

i don't recall when i closed the door and i boarded this
pounding track
that drives me
yeah it drives me
oh it drives me

how do we break

i remember
when you told me
that you loved me
i believe it was true
but do you ever really own
what you think you do
i don't think you ever own

one way rivers
and run away trains
i'm caught in this scene
i forgot my way
oh
i know
i know
i've been chasing my tail around this invisible jail forever plotting
my escape

from these

i remember
i remember
