

Walking Back In Time

Words and music by Jenica Rayne © 2004

in a box of memories
found a picture of you
can't believe
it's been all these years
can you?
dusty photographs
good thing
they're washed with time
as it slips away
like when you were mine
and we go
walking back in time

there's always
two different stories
from two different sides
two different reasons
to say goodbye
there's always
from two different lives
to say goodbye

Johnny came home
to an empty house
Sam's gone away
found someone else
we can blame each other
like we often do
Johnny blamed the other
ah we do that too
but she's not the cleave
that split your path
she was the spark
imagine that

there's always

there's always

it's a give and take
when we don't have to fight
we blamed each other
fell into the trap
you walked away
you never came back

but

she's not the cleave that split our path
imagine that
